CENSE SIGNS ON ALL AUTOS

men Discussed Ma ter At Length terday With Above Mentioned Re—The Fees Sligh Less Than As First Proposed—tter of Street ng Taken Up But Nothing Final Done—Not Much Paving Will Be e.

yesterday afternoon's meeeting of oard of Aldermen, the automobile nce came up again on an amend- offered by Alderman Clendenin by numbers to indicate the holding license by the driver would not to be displayed on the machine. an Albright opposed the amend- on the ground that only by tags displaying the numbers the law be made effective. A nte offered by Mr. Albright for lendenin's amendment prevailed, voting "aye" being Albright, k and Smith and those voting eing Clendenin, Ellington. The or- as amended also reduced the li- fee from $2.50 to $2.00 and the l fee from $1.00 to .50.

board did not reach its decision the automobile ordinance until to- the close of the meeting. In the part of the meeting Dr. J. P. , chauffeur inspector, was before oard regarding the license signs. vored small license badges for chauffeurs and cards for private and their families. Mr. Clarence s made a talk against the speed declaring that it should be 10 in- of 8 miles and that the ordinance be changed to fast and reckless instead of lover speeding as the was more dangerous. He also d a reduction of the license fees.

board met at 2:45 o'clock Mayor d presiding and Aldermen Al- Clendenin, Ellington and Smith ing the roll call. Alderman Glas- me in later. The minutes of the s session were read and approved. T. J. Murphy appeared in the in- of property owners on Magnolia and asked that the board accept eet and put it in a passable con-

He said that the street had al- been dedicated to the city and the d taken considerable gravel from l and used it on other streets. In f the fact that the city had par- accepted the street by digging one end and using the gravel he t it ought to accept the street prove it so the property owners get about with inconvenience. hen Albright, Ellington and Smith ppointed a committee to look the on over and report at a later g.

R. R. King requested that the modify the order issued some time quiring the owners of the Farmers' use to connect with the sewer. ted that the conditions were such arehouse that had been found ally impossible to keep toilets ed and in perfect order. The mat- s discussed at length with the re- that it was referred to the Board lth for an investigation and a at a later meeting.

W. C. Beasley was granted a re- f plumbers' license.

Judge N. L. Eure was granted a absence for ten days and Capt. Holgood was chosen to preside e city court during Judge Eure's .

ritten request was received from Eure asking that his salary be to $1200. The salary at present 00. In Judge Eure's communica- points out that the salary paid judge in Greensboro is smaller paid in Winston and other places h the duties are more onerous. on this matter was deferred till regular meeting.

J. R. Cutchin and T. M. Pick- he Street Commission, were and Mr. Cutchin, chairman, stat- the Commission wanted to know mount of money the city had le for the paving of Buchanan er streets, the paving of which der consideration. There followed hy discussion involving the state city's funds, the cost of bitulithic pared with vitrified brick paving n. Under the new abutting pro- wners are given five years to pay the city their part of the expense of paving and the board finally decided, on motion of Alderman Albright, that before deciding definitely what streets should be paved to have the Street Commission ascertain how many of the abutting property owners were willing to pay promptly their portion of the expense. The same motion provided that the cost of paving with vitrified brick be ascertained, the figures submitted b ythe Commission yesterday merely indicating the cost of bitulithic.

While the board as stated did not decide on any definite program of street improvement, it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that only a portion of Buchanan and that part of Washington between Elm and Davie could be paved at present and possibly it will be found practicable to do only the paving on Buchanan, the portion of the street to be paved being that between Elm street and the west side of the Huffine Hotel building.

The board decided to defer any further consideration of the Sunday ordinance until such time as there could be a full attendance of the Aldermen present, Alderman King being absent yesterday.

The payment of $50 to Judge Shaw for special legal services was authorized. The services referred towere in connection with the cases growing out of the dynamiting of a house in "Jacksonville" and other cases and were performed in Superior court, Judge Shaw's contract as city attorney not requiring his appearance in Superior court in criminal cases. Mayor Stafford said that the sentences secured through Judge Shaw's efforts in the dynamiting and other cases had had a most salutary effect in the section of the city where the disorder had occurred and as the prosecution of these cases had required considerable work and time on the part of Judge Shaw he felt that he should be compensated. The mayor also stated that Judge Shaw had undertaken the work at his request.

FARMERS' AND WOMEN'S INSTITUTES AT ELON

It Was An Enthusiastic Gathering and Thoroughly Practical.

Elon College, N. C., Aug. 12.—The Farmers' Institute and Women's Institute held in connection with it, took place here yesterday. It was not largely attended, but it was an enthusiastic gathering and thoroughly practical. The excellent program planned and carried out by the State Department of Agriculture officials was a success in every particular.

This program consisted of discussions on Soil Improvement or Corn Culture by Mr. J. L. Burgess, on Live Stock on the Farm by Dr. Wood, on the Farm Vegetable Garden by Mr. S. B. Shaw, on Home Canning Demonstrated by Mr. Shaw, on Diseases Common to Live Stock by Dr. Wood, and on Corn Adaptation by Mr. Burgess. There were also explanations of the Boys' Club Contest for Raising Corn and Open Parliaments and Question Boxes following each address. The farmers proved good interrogation points and the lecturers and institute conductors proved their ability to handle every situation.

A fine feature of the day was the Women's Institute conducted by Miss M. L. Jamison, and her sister. This institute included the discussion of such vital themes as The Uses of Food in the Body, Preventable Diseases, Home Sanitation, etc., etc. The ladies were very much pleased with their institute.

The Institute carried with it two exhibit cars. These were thronged with eager spectators.

A local committee was appointed to take the proper steps to make the institute an annual affair.

Lanark, Scotland, Aug. 12.—It was officially announced today that J. Armstrong Drexel, the American aviator, last night attained a world's altitude record by rising 6,750 feet.

Lanark, Scotland, Aug. 12.—Drexel's flight was the sensation of the aviation meeting. Ascending at 7 o'clock in the evening, he shot up into a bank of clouds and disappeared from the gaze of the anxious crowd. He landed about two hours later near a farmhouse 12 miles from Lanark.

GUILFORD BOY BADLY WOUNDED

In Melee on Norfolk Excursion Train.

Young Man Named Ted Stanley Shot in Breast and Robert Jones, a Greensboro Boy, Is Cut on Head With Bottle—Stanley Now in Danville Hospital—Trouble Happened in Coach Full of Colored People, Many of Whom Were Tanked Up.

Ted Stanley, a young white man who lives near Guilford College, was seriously wounded in a fight, or small race riot, on the Southern's excursion train, section 2, returning to Greensboro from Norfolk Thursday night. Robert Jones, a Greensboro boy, was cut about the head with a bottle and was rendered unconscious for some time. Stanley is now in the hospital in Danville, and while his wound is of a serious nature there are hopes for his recovery.

The particulars were hard to get and according to the best information obtainable the fight happened about this way: T. L. Proctor, of this place, had gone into the coach for colored passengers. The two boys were either passing through, or went in just behind Proctor. The latter and one of the negroes got in a difficulty over a bottle of liquor and as a number of the negroes were tanked up the trouble spread. One of the negroes attempted to shoot Proctor, but the bullet struck Stanley in the right breast and passing through his body. In the melee Jones was struck on the head with a beer bottle and rendered unconscious.

Both the injured lads were laid off at Franklin Junction where they were picked up by section three of the excursion. They had received medical attention and were accompanied to Danville by a physician. Here they were carried to the General Hospital. Jones soon got all right and returned home yesterday at noon but little worse for the encounter.

On section three was Sergeant Jones and he at once began enquiring as to who did the shooting. The boys knew him and gave a pretty accurate description of one or two of the men. Accordingly when the train reached Danville the second section was waiting and in company with members of the Danville police Sergeant Jones scoured the train with the result that four negroes were locked up, three of them being from Greensboro. They are George Price, Howard Hollis and John McKoy, of this city, and Sam Macklin, of Reidsville. The latter was recognized as the one that did the shooting, but the others are implicated in the fight. All are being held in Danville pending a hearing.

Sergeant Jones reports that excepting this fight the entire crowd was as orderly as one could have wished. He said there was not the slightest trace of disorder on the train he was on. The trip was a delightful one in every respect, he declared.

FOREST FIRES.

Several Western Cities In Danger—Citizens Wetting Roofs.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 12.—With cinders, ashes and even small limbs of trees falling in the towns of the Coeur D'Alene region, citizens of Wallace, Mullan and Burke yesterday felt the first real apprehension from forest fires. Two awnings caught fire in Wallace from cinders and the citizens generally are taking precaution to wet their roofs and the exposed outbuildings thoroughly.

Mullan reports that fire from Rock Creek, three miles distant, under a strong wind, carried limbs of trees a foot and a half long and still burning, into the town. The fire department was called out and all buildings drenched. The smoke was so dense that the electric lights had to be turned on at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The fire broke into the Placer creek basin, 3 1-2 miles from Wallace in the afternoon and the dense smoke floated into the valley, bearing ashes and cinders.

Many citizens went out last night to see the fire, which is burning near the Hord ranch on the opposite side of the gulch. The flames are burning away from the city.

Long hair in a man is no more a mark of genius than short hair in a woman.

A SWAT-FEST AT CONE PARK

Durham Men Handy With The Willow.

Kept the Proximity Boys Chasing the Horsehide All Over the Lot—Fine Base-Running by the Smokers—Proximity Boys in Bad Form and Could Not Get Single Man Across Plate—Champs Won Yesterday—Game This Afternoon.

Durham got away with yesterday's game with Proximity with ease, the score standing 12 and 0 at the end of the final frame. The contest was in reality a swatfest. Jones, who went in the box for Proximity, was knocked out of the box in the second inning, a base on balls, two singles, two doubles and a wild throw to first all by himself, allowed five runs to be piled up. Holloman relieved him and in the seven innings he gave up nine safeties, four of these coming in the fifth and two each in the eighth and ninth.

In fact, the Proximity boys were kept chasing the horsehide all over the lot and on several times they allowed hits by dumb fielding. Then too the whole team seemed to be in bad form and the four errors charged up against them were all costly. The locals had eleven men left on bases and once bases were full and no one out. But an attempted steal met with failure, the man being caught at the plate, and the next two up fanned.

The Smokers played good ball and it was evident from the first that their opponents had no show whatever. They handled the willow in real Ty Cobb style, every man making a single and several going for doubles. Biggerstaff, a deaf mute, was in the box and the eight hits he allowed were scattered, the majority of them being in the infield. And he covered his portion of the diamond in fine style. He was also there when he went to the bat, landing for a single and a triple.

Had Proximity been in her usual form the teams would have been about evenly matched and a fine game would have resulted. Local fans hope to see the teams play a second game before the season is over.

League Ball.

Greensboro yesterday trimmed Charlotte in great form, winning by the score of three to one. Eldridge was on the slab and the three hits that he gave up were somewhat scattered. Jenkins gave up eleven and enough of these were piled up in the second to cinch the game, after which there was nothing doing on either side. The final game on the Charlotte grounds between the two teams will be played this afternoon. Score by innings:

Winston-Salem, Aug. 12.—With the Twins playing a magnificent fielding game and with Laval in fine form, the locals took another game from Anderson today by the score of 1 to 0, the only run coming in the fourth, on an error after Painter had singled and had been sacrificed to second, the error coming in the shape of a wild throw by Smith.

Farmer did fine work in the box, allowing only five hits, two of which were scratches.

Anderson got a man on third in the ninth after two were out, but the last man proved an easy out.

WINSTON MAN SUICIDES

J. A. Crews Takes Life Because of Failing Health.

Winston, Aug. 12.—Mr. J. A. Crews, while in a despondent mood, produced by ill health and reverses in business, committed suicide last night at his home in Fairview by shooting himself through the heart.

Mr. Crews was a splendid citizen and for several years conducted a successful mercantile business at the corner of Liberty and Mickey streets. When his health failed he disposed of his interest and retired. At times, for several weeks, his mental faculties were observed to be affected and arrangements had been made to send him to the State hospital for treatment.

When Mr. Crews went to his room to retire last night he appeared to be as well as usual. Just what time he fired the fatal shot will perhaps never be known, as his death was not discovered until about six o'clock this morning, when a member of the family called him to get ready for breakfast. Failing to get a response, the room door was opened and the husband and father was found lying across the bed in his night clothes cold in death. The pistol was lying on the floor. A bullet wound was discovered in the left breast. The man had unbuttoned his shirt, placed the muzzle of the pistol to the breast and fired. The sound of the pistol was not heard by any member of the family.

He is survived by a widow and three children, one daughter and two sons. These have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement produced by the untimely death of a kind and affectionate husband and a loving father.

THE EASTERN STAR

Local Chapter Will Co-Operate With Masonic Committee In Caring For Orphans.

At a meeting of the Eastern Star last night plans were formulated to assist the Masonic Home Committee in providing entertainment for the class of orphans from the Oxford Orphan Asylum who will be here Aug. 22 to give a concert.

The Eastern Star also commenced preliminary arrangements last night for the celebration of Robert Morris Day on Aug. 31. There will be a picnic and subscriptions will be taken for the support of the home for aged and infirm Masons when that has been completed.

Appearances are deceptive, especially the kind people are always trying to keep up.

REQUESTS FOR PREMIUM LISTS

Of Annual State Fair Are Numerous.

Number of Counties Entered To Compete For Various Prizes—New Agricultural Building Will Be Ready—Rifle Target Contest In Connection With Fair—Commissioner of Labor and Printing Says 1910 Report Will Be Complete.

Raleigh, Aug. 12.—Secretary Joseph E. Pogue, of the State Fair, says a number of counties have already entered to compete for the attractive premiums in this department and that from all parts of the state are coming special requests for premium lists for all departments, requests in addition to the distribution through the regular large mailing list. There is a good forfeit bond up for the completion of the new concrete horticultural and agricultural building and every bit of the 60x150 feet of exhibit space in this is already let.

Work on the North Carolina National Guard rifle range here was discontinued right after the killing of Convict J. L. Fox in May, but the penitentiary authorities advise the promoters of the enterprise that another squad will be set to work to complete the grading, the digging of the rifle pit and setting up the targets within the next two weeks. Plans are in the making for a number of squads from companies in various parts of the State to come to Raleigh during State Fair week and hold target contests on the range which is sure to be ready in that time. A member of the Guard said today that another thing that is being talked now is getting up a ninety mile practice ride by as many officers of the guard in this section as possible, such points as Durham, Henderson and others being included in the ride with features of entertainment at each to break the monotony of the ride. This may take place some time in October.

Commissioner M. L. Shipman and Assistant Commissioner Justice of the State department of labor and printing, say that the way the responses are coming in to letters of inquiry from all parts of the State and the complete data that personal inspections are yielding gives abundant assurance that the 1910 report of the department showing the proportions of individual and collective enterprises of all sorts and the condition of the agricultural interests as well, will far outstrip any previous report. There is assurance, too, that the representation of the labor conditions will be the most representative yet obtained. The inquiry blanks for these reports have been in the hands of the correspondents in every locality of the State and other managers of factories and mills since July 1.

Deputy Commissioner of Insurance W. A. Scott has gone to Wilmington under instructions from Commissioner Young to make a thorough investigation into the Rock Springs Hotel fire that has given rise to the charge that Proprietor Holly started the fire to burn the body of Edward Cromwell, a boy whose life he had insured for $2,500 and who was found dead in the room in which the fire started.

MISS LUCY PIPER DEAD.

Passed Away Thursday Night In Hospital in Maryland.

A message received yesterday brought the news of the death of Miss Lucy Piper, which occurred in the hospital at Mt. Hope, Md., Thursday night. The remains are expected to arrive this afternoon and will be taken to Burlington Sunday morning for interment in the family burying ground.

Miss Piper was a sister of Mr. E. L. Piper, a well known engineer, and Miss Ella Piper, of this city, and Mr. Charles Piper, of Spencer. She has a large number of friends here who will learn with regret of her death.

THIS PHYSICIAN HAD BRIGHT'S

Report on the case of Dr. C. F. Simmons, of San Antonio, Texas.

Was taken down with Bright's Disease several years ago. The patient, being an old-school physician, visited many of the best specialists in the U. S. Was told that he could not live long and was advised to go to Excelsior Springs, Mo.

Was there advised by the consulting physician to change the treatment to Fulton's Renal Compound.

Case responded slowly but steadily, it requiring between one and two years to remove the albumen and effect a recovery.

The last three reports showed no albumen and during the past year patient advises that he has done more mental work than he had done altogether in the five previous years.

Being a graduate physician, Dr. Simmons realizes the importance of his recovery, and unsolicited wrote a personal letter, giving the above facts and saying that if we didn't tell the people of the South about it that he would do it himself. Physicians who still believe in the incurability of chronic Bright's Disease will probably get an interesting letter if they will write Dr. Simmons.

The new emollient treatment for Bright's and chronic kidney diesase, Fulton's Renal Compound can be had in Greensboro from Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

We desire to hear from and advise with patients not noting improvement by the third week. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery street, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

Worms

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape-worm 45 feet long. It was Mr. Matt Freck, of Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. I use them myself and find them beneficial for most any disease caused by impure blood." Chas. E. Condon, Lewiston, Pa., (Mifflin Co.)

HAND-PAINTED HATS.

Chief Clerk of Audubon Society Hails Innovation With Delight.

New York American.

The hand-painted hat! It's coming to the succor of the hard-pressed birds of America.

In Boston, the Audubon Society is working heartily on the idea, and wives of Boston multi-millionaires are sending in orders like these to their milliners:

"Secure a Sargent profile or a Whistler head for my new hat. Also quote prices on a Corot landscape with chipmunks in the foreground. My husband has only allowed me $10,000 for my hat this fall, so you must be economical. If you cannot secure examples of the artists I have named I will be satisfied with a Howard Chanler, Christy, or a Harrison Fisher head."

In New York the movement is rapidly gaining headway, although strange to say, it is opposed by the president of the New York Audubon Society, William Dutcher, who said yesterday to an American reporter:

"I oppose the hand-painted hat idea, because I think it is inartistic. I am so deep a lover of birds that I should be deeply grieved to see such monstrous representations as would appear upon women's hats. Imagine what kinds of portraits of birds artists at a bargain sale would turn out! For you know there would still be some women who would demand hand-painted hats at $2.98."

Macdougal alley and other artistic centres relaxed their dignity yesterday long enough to shout: "Yea, bo. Us for the job of painting hats."

One enterprising artist, Washington Worthington Pegasus, has already posted his prices for painting various birds on women's hats. There are 26 species of two-legged birds on Mr Pegasus' prospectus. Here are some of the prices:

Robin, $50; catbird, $60; yellow warbler, $75; red-eyed vireo, $90; waxwing, $95; crow, $100, and the screech-owl, $125.

TRAVEL IN ARABIA.

It is Only Posible by Means of Camels —Horse a Myth.

Wide World Magazine.

In Arabia travel is only posible by means of camels. The prancing Arabian steed is a myth to the traveler in the peninsula.

I never saw a horse worth looking at in those desert regions; indeed, I cannot see how horses could be bred to perfection in such a herbless land. Without the camel life would be impossible. The "humpty herds" are the sole product of the desert, and on them one must wander from well to well if one determines to brave this most inhospitable and dangerous of journeys. Camels form the chief concern of the Arab's existence, they supply him with all his wants, tents, food, clothing and transport, hence the breeds are well selected and pedigrees carefully kept. The tribe I was with owned immense herds of camels, chiefly of highly bred dromedaries, capable of great endurance and of going without water for a long period, but they also had a few heavily built baggage camels.

These dromedaries will, when in good condition, travel seven or eight days without water. In the spring months when the pasture is fresh, they will even exist for three weeks without it. For a short journey they can go at a rate of 70 miles a day, and the Bedouins are very fond of telling stories of record rides on camel back and of extraordinary distances covered without water. They can even cross immense areas of fodderless country subsisting entirely on their hump, which, however, gradually diminishes in size.

The highly bred dromedary is like a thoroughbred horse, very nervous and difficult to ride. It is as necessary to talk to your camel as it is for the plowman to talk to his team.

WOMEN AND HAPPINESS.

Periodical Says She Should Not Be Too Good or Intelligent.

Atlantic Magazine.

Apart from the crude economic question, the thing that most women mean when they speak of "happiness," that is, love and children and the little republic of the home, depend upon the favor of men, and the qualities that win this favor are not in general those that are most useful for other purposes.

A girl should not be too intelligent or too good or to highly differentiated in any direction. Like a ready-made garment she should be designed to fit the average man. She should have "just about as much religion as my William likes." The age-long operation of this rule, by which the least strongly individualized women are the most likely to have a chance to transmit their qualities, has given it the air of a natural law.

Though the lady has generally yielded it unquestioning obedience, she often dreams of a land like that of the Amazons, where she might be judged on her merits instead of on her charms. Seeing that in the world a woman's social position, her daily food, her chance of children depend on her exerting sufficient charm to induce some man to assume the responsibility and expense of maintaining her for life, and that the qualities on which this charm depends are sometimes altogether unattainable by a given woman, it is not surprising that exceptional women are willing to eliminate from their lives the whole question of marriage and motherhood for the sake of a free development, irrespective of its bearing on the other sex.

Staggers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove its a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Persian Shawls.

The "shal" of Kerman—whence our word "shawl"—is made of goats' hair. Like the carpets, the shawl patterns are learned by heart, and the work is even finer. Children also do this work. It is estimated that Kerman turns out $300,000 worth of shawls, handmade, a year. The finest product is a fir cone pattern, a rich color effect, made especially for the governor of the province, who wears it as a robe of honor on the Persian New Year's day.

He Got Her.

"It's so long since you called upon me," said the girl as she came down to the young man in the parlor, "that I was beginning to think you were forgetting me."

"I am for getting you," replied the smart youth, "and that's why I've called tonight. Can I have you?"

A REWARD

It Was Not For Timidity

By HARRY C. ERNST

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I arose after a night's journey in a sleeping car, made my toilet in the wash room at the end of the car, and when I returned to my berth it was made up. I found there the occupant of the upper berth, a sleek looking gentleman, well dressed and apparently prosperous, but with an anxious expression on his face that he could not conceal. He seemed to find it difficult to sit still and kept furtively looking about him as though he expected some one to pounce upon him.

We were entering Chicago and before reaching the terminal stopped at a suburban station. By this time my section mate looked so frightened that he was entirely unable to conceal his feelings. Standing up, he cast a glance out the window, hesitated, then, seizing his suit case, hurried from the train.

We had no sooner started again than, casting a glance at my own suit case, which had stood on the floor beside that of the departed passenger, I noticed that my name did not appear on its end. I quickly examined the other end, but it was not there either. I knew that my suit case bore my name and my city, so I at once made up my mind that the man who had occupied the other berth had taken mine instead of his own. I took out my key to see if I could open the one remaining, but it did not fit.

It struck me that there was something wrong with the man who had exchanged suit cases. Supposing he were a fugitive from justive, if I were found with his baggage I might be mistaken for him and get into trouble. It would be impossible for me to reach him and inform him of his mistake. I must go on to the depot without my suit case. He would discover my name and address on it, and since my residence was in Chicago he would, if honest, drop me a line through the postoffice.

But what should I do with his suit case? Did I not suspect him I would take it with me and return it to him when he returned mine. As it was, I dreaded to be found with it in my possession.

There was a young man sitting in the section opposite me. He looked rather seedy and melancholy. Beside him was a suit case. Just before entering the station he went to the other end of the car. Taking advantage of his absence, I changed suit cases with him. When he returned, since we were under cover of the station, the car was quite dark. He picked up the suit case I had placed on his seat and went out with it among the throng of passengers.

I waited patiently, expecting every day to receive a note from the man who had my suit case. I couldn't address him, for there was no name on the suit case I had taken. I received no communication and finally gave up expecting any. I determined to open the suit case I had in my possession to see if I could find anything inside indicating to whom it belonged.

Forcing the lock, I found within pieces of linen clothing, a paper novel and a few letters. The latter were not in envelopes bearing an address, and, in order to discover if there was anything in them to give me the information I wished, I read them. They were from a girl who was very unhappy at her lover leaving her to go to Chicago to seek his fortune. By mutual consent they had given up all hope of a union because the lover was poor and they couldn't afford to marry. I had gained this information before I came to the words, "I shall send your letters to No. — —— street." I knew this is to a Chicago street.

Here was what I wanted. I wrote a note to the young man stating that (by mistake) he had taken my suit case and if he had mine I would like to exchange with him.

I received no reply for some weeks; then I got a letter containing some remarkable information — information that made me regret my timidity of being mistaken for a criminal. Indeed, I no sooner read the words than I desired to "kick" myself all over the three "sides" that compose Chicago. The young man told me that he had opened the suit case and in it had found a package of bank bills to the amount of $90,000. Seeing in newspaper telegraphic news from an eastern city of a bank robbery, he had communicated with the officers of the bank, returned the money and had received a reward of $9,000 for doing so. Meanwhile the police had got on the track of the robber, who had been the bank's paying teller, and he had been arrested. The young man added that it was supposed the guilty party had purposely changed suit cases with him, not daring to face the police of Chicago, who might be watching for him. He wound up by apologizing for his long silence on the ground that he had been east to secure his reward and had brought back a wife with him.

So I had turned over $90,000 of stolen money to another, enabling him to reap $9,000 reward. But I had much consolation in the fact that I had been the means of uniting a pair of lovers who had given each other up. I met the young man and his wife afterward. They were making a fortune out of that reward.

While this young man made a clean $9,000 out of the operation, I lost my baggage, which contained a new $100 evening suit, with several valuable toilet articles.

THIS PHYSICIAN HAD BRIGHT'S

Report on the case of Dr. C. F. Simmons of San Antonio, Texas.

Was taken down with Bright's Disease several years ago. The patient, being an old-school physician, visited many of the best specialists in the U. S. Was told that he could not live long and was advised to go to Excelsior Springs, Mo.

While there advised by the consulting physician to change the treatment to Fulton's Renal Compound.

Case responded slowly but steadily, it requiring between one and two years to remove the albumen and effect a recovery.

The last three reports showed no albumen and during the past year patient advises that he has done more mental work than he had done altogether in the five previous years.

Being a graduate physician, Dr. Simmons realizes the importance of his recovery, and unsolicited wrote a personal letter giving the above facts and saying that if we didn't tell the people of the South about it that he would do it himself. Physicians who still believe in the incurability of chronic Bright's Disease will probably get an interesting letter if they will write Dr. Simmons.

The new emollient treatment for Bright's and chronic kidney disease, Fulton's Renal Compound can be had in Greensboro from Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

We desire to hear from and advise with patients not noting improvement by the third week. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery street, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. I use them myself and find them beneficial for almost any disease caused by impure blood." Chas. E. Condon, Lewiston, Pa., (Mifflin Co.)

HAND-PAINTED HATS.

Chief Clerk of Audubon Society Hails Innovation With Delight.

New York American.

The hand-painted hat! It's coming to the succor of the hard-pressed birds of America.

In Boston, the Audubon Society is working heartily on the idea, and wives of Boston multi-millionaires are sending in orders like these to their milliners:

"Secure a Sargent profile or a Whistler head for my new hat. Also quote prices on a Corot landscape with chipmunks in the foreground. My husband has only allowed me $10,000 for my hat this fall, so you must be economical. If you cannot secure examples of the artists I have named I will be satisfied with a Howard Chanler, Christy, or a Harrison Fisher head."

In New York the movement is rapidly gaining headway, although strange to say, it is opposed by the president of the New York Audubon Society, William Dutcher, who said yesterday to an American reporter:

"I oppose the hand-painted hat idea, because I think it is inartistic. I am so deep a lover of birds that I should be deeply grieved to see such monstrous representations as would appear upon women's hats. Imagine what kinds of portraits of birds artists at a bargain sale would turn out! For you know there would still be some women who would demand hand-painted hats at $2.98."

Macdougal alley and other artistic centres relaxed their dignity yesterday long enough to shout: "Yea, bo. Us for the job of painting hats."

One enterprising artist, Washington Worthington Pegasus, has already posted his prices for painting various birds on women's hats. There are 26 species of two-legged birds on Mr Pegasus' prospectus. Here are some of the prices:

Robin, $50; catbird, $60; yellow warbler, $75; red-eyed vireo, $90; waxwing, $95; crow, $100, and the screech-owl, $125.

TRAVEL IN ARABIA.

It is Only Posible by Means of Camels —Horse a Myth.

Wide World Magazine.

In Arabia travel is only posible by means of camels. The prancing Arabian steed is a myth to the traveler in the peninsula.

I never saw a horse worth looking at in those desert regions; indeed, I cannot see how horses could be bred to perfection in such a herbless land. Without the camel life would be impossible. The "humpty herds" are the sole product of the desert, and on them one must wander from well to well if one determines to brave this most inhospitable and dangerous of journeys. Camels form the chief concern of the Arab's existence, they supply him with all his wants, tents, food, clothing and transport, hence the breeds are well selected and pedigrees carefully kept. The tribe I was with owned immense herds of camels, chiefly of highly bred dromedaries, capable of great endurance and of going without water for a long period, but they also had a few heavily built baggage camels.

These dromedaries will, when in good condition, travel seven or eight days without water. In the spring months when the pasture is fresh, they will even exist for three weeks without it. For a short journey they can go at a rate of 70 miles a day, and the Bedouins are very fond of telling stories of record rides on camel back and of extraordinary distances covered without water. They can even cross immense areas of fodderless country subsisting entirely on their hump, which, however, gradually diminishes in size.

The highly bred dromedary is like a thoroughbred horse, very nervous and difficult to ride. It is as necessary to talk to your camel as it is for the plowman to talk to his team.

WOMEN AND HAPPINESS.

Atlantic Magazine.

Apart from the crude economic question, the thing that most women mean when they speak of "happiness," that is, love and children and the little republic of the home, depend upon the favor of men, and the qualities that win this favor are not in general those that are most useful for other purposes.

A girl should not be too intelligent or too good or to highly differentiated in any direction. Like a ready-made garment she should be designed to fit the average man. She should have "just about as much religion as my William likes." The age-long operation of this rule, by which the least strongly individualized women are the most likely to have a chance to transmit their qualities, has given it the air of a natural law.

Though the lady has generally yielded it unquestioning obedience, she often dreams of a land like that of the Amazons, where she might be judged on her merits instead of on her charms. Seeing that in the world a woman's social position, her daily food, her chance of children depend on her exerting sufficient charm to induce some man to assume the responsibility and expense of maintaining her for life, and that the qualities on which this charm depends are sometimes altogether unattainable by a given woman, it is not surprising that exceptional women are willing to eliminate from their lives the whole question of marriage and motherhood for the sake of a free development, irrespective of its bearing on the other sex.

Staggers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove its a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Persian Shawls.

The "shal" of Kerman—whence our word "shawl"—is made of goats' hair. Like the carpets, the shawl patterns are learned by heart, and the work is even finer. Children also do this work. It is estimated that Kerman turns out $300,000 worth of shawls, handmade, a year. The finest product is a fir cone pattern, a rich color effect, made especially for the governor of the province, who wears it as a robe of honor on the Persian New Year's day.

He Got Her.

"It's so long since you called upon me," said the girl as she came down to the young man in the parlor, "that I was beginning to think you were forgetting me."

"I am for getting you," replied the smart youth, "and that's why I've called tonight. Can I have you?"

A REWARD

It Was Not For Timidity

By HARRY C. ERNST

I arose after a night's journey in a sleeping car, made my toilet in the wash room at the end of the car, and when I returned to my berth it was made up. I found there the occupant of the upper berth, a sleek looking gentleman, well dressed and apparently prosperous, but with an anxious expression on his face that he could not conceal. He seemed to find it difficult to sit still and kept furtively looking about him as though he expected some one to pounce upon him.

We were entering Chicago and before reaching the terminal stopped at a suburban station. By this time my section mate looked so frightened that he was entirely unable to conceal his feelings. Standing up, he cast a glance out the window, hesitated, then, seizing his suit case, hurried from the train.

We had no sooner started again than, casting a glance at my own suit case, which had stood on the floor beside that of the departed passenger, I noticed that my name did not appear on its end. I quickly examined the other end, but it was not there either. I knew that my suit case bore my name and my city, so I at once made up my mind that the man who had occupied the other berth had taken mine instead of his own. I took out my key to see if I could open the one remaining, but it did not fit.

It struck me that there was something wrong with the man who had exchanged suit cases. Supposing he were a fugitive from justive, if I were found with his baggage I might be mistaken for him and get into trouble. It would be impossible for me to reach him and inform him of his mistake. I must go on to the depot without my suit case. He would discover my name and address on it, and since my residence was in Chicago he would, if honest, drop me a line through the postoffice.

But what should I do with his suit case? Did I not suspect him I would take it with me and return it to him when he returned mine. As it was, I dreaded to be found with it in my possession.

There was a young man sitting in the section opposite me. He looked rather seedy and melancholy. Beside him was a suit case. Just before entering the station he went to the other end of the car. Taking advantage of his absence, I changed suit cases with him. When he returned, since we were under cover of the station, the car was quite dark. He picked up the suit case I had placed on his seat and went out with it among the throng of passengers.

I waited patiently, expecting every day to receive a note from the man who had my suit case. I couldn't address him, for there was no name on the suit case I had taken. I received no communication and finally gave up expecting any. I determined to open the suit case I had in my possession to see if I could find anything inside indicating to whom it belonged.

Forcing the lock, I found within pieces of linen clothing, a paper novel and a few letters. The latter were not in envelopes bearing an address, and, in order to discover if there was anything in them to give me the information I wished, I read them. They were from a girl who was very unhappy at her lover leaving her to go to Chicago to seek his fortune. By mutual consent they had given up all hope of a union because the lover was poor and they couldn't afford to marry. I had gained this information before I came to the words, "I shall send your letters to No. — —— street." I knew this is to a Chicago street.

Here was what I wanted. I wrote a note to the young man stating that (by mistake) he had taken my suit case and if he had mine I would like to exchange with him.

I received no reply for some weeks; then I got a letter containing some remarkable information — information that made me regret my timidity of being mistaken for a criminal. Indeed, I no sooner read the words than I desired to "kick" myself all over the three "sides" that compose Chicago. The young man told me that he had opened the suit case and in it had found a package of bank bills to the amount of $90,000. Seeing in newspaper telegraphic news from an eastern city of a bank robbery, he had communicated with the officers of the bank, returned the money and had received a reward of $9,000 for doing so. Meanwhile the police had got on the track of the robber, who had been the bank's paying teller, and he had been arrested. The young man added that it was supposed the guilty party had purposely changed suit cases with him, not daring to face the police of Chicago, who might be watching for him. He wound up by apologizing for his long silence on the ground that he had been east to secure his reward and had brought back a wife with him.

So I had turned over $90,000 of stolen money to another, enabling him to reap $9,000 reward. But I had much consolation in the fact that I had been the means of uniting a pair of lovers who had given each other up. I met the young man and his wife afterward. They were making a fortune out of that reward.

While this young man made a clean $9,000 out of the operation, I lost my baggage, which contained a new $100 evening suit, with several valuable toilet articles.

Without the alienists, it would be difficult apparently to conduct homicide and near-homicide trials in New York. A man tried to kill the Mayor of New York the other day and about the first step taken by the defence was to "retain" an alienist. Of course there is no such thing as an adequate upholding of the majesty of the law without recourse to the alienists.

Gov. Malcolm R. Patterson, of Tennessee, has been nominated for a third term, but in view of the objection to him on the part of many Democrats he proposes to enter a primary and thus ascertain whether or not he is the choice of the Democracy. Such a primary is not likely to be realized. The Democrats of Tennessee who are opposed to Patterson are too bitterly opposed to him to take any chances of having to support him as they would be in honor bound to do if they were to participate in the proposed primary and he should get a majority of the votes cast.

Some time ago Senator Bristow charged Senator Aldrich with having the rubber tariff schedule changed so as to benefit the Intercontinental Rubber Company of which the Rhode Island Senator is a stockholder and a director. Senator Aldrich comes back at Bristow with the assertion that the Intercontinental Rubber Company hasn't the slightest interest, direct or indirect, in the manufacture of any article covered by the change in rates referred to and that the change was a very slight one and made purely on the request of Treasury experts in order to arrive at uniformity in rates. It remains to be seen what Bristow will say in reply, but just now it looks as if Aldrich has answered the criticism of this particular part of his connection with tariff manipulation. As a matter of fact, it seemed unlikely all along that Aldrich, as sordid as are his conceptions of the requirements of the public service, would be guilty of so fragrant a violation of the proprieties and decencies of legislation.

Senator Aldrich, in replying to certain charges made against him by Senator Bristow, thus refers to Republican and Democratic differences on the tariff:

In the tariff discussions of other days, the advocates of the protective policy have usually been called to meet in debate men with convictions on the subject—Democrats of character, whose theories of government differed completely from those held by Republican protectionists—men who had some regard for the accuracy of their statements and some knowledge of the subject they discussed.

Referring plainly to the Democratic position on the tariff, State Chairman Morehead, a new "light" in Republican councils, says that the Republicans are the only ones who have honest, well thoughtout opinions and that the Democrats are and have been actuated purely by prejudice. Either Mr. Aldrich or Mr. Morehead is wrong about this matter and we are rather inclined to think that Mr. Aldrich has had a better opportunity to judge as to the sincerity of the Democrats in their tariff beliefs than has Mr. Morehead.

The Progressive Farmer says:

The keynote of the new spirit in temperance teaching was sounded the other day by Dr. George W. Webster, president of the Illinois Board of Health, when he said:

"More may be accomplished by teaching the people the truth in regard to the fatal effects of alcohol upon mental and physical efficiency than by expatiating on the moral wickedness of drinking."

This is a doctrine which everybody interested in the genuine development of temperance would do well to bear in mind. Long-haired orators who come around and grow eloquent over drunkards' graves and blighted homes and deserted wives may or may not do permanent good. If drinking is a sin, then it's a sin because it injures a man, and if a temperance advocate is to accomplish any permanent good he must show just how it injures a man.

It occurs to us that the Progressive Farmer has jumped at an unwarranted conclusion. That alcohol reduces the mental and physical efficiency is an argument against its use, to be sure. But the solemn words of the preachers and others touching the "drunkard's graves" and "blighted homes" are not to be held in light esteem. The argument which our contemporary lauds so highly is as we have said a sound one, but it also involves the selfish view of the matter in hand. It warns a man against drink because drink will mar his career, making him less strong physically and mentally than he would otherwise be. But that is not the only viewpoint that can be taken. There is the argument of appeal to the man's unselfishness. This argument warns against drink because to drink is to run grave risk of causing great and possibly irremediable unhappiness to one's friends and family. This is a higher, nobler argument than the other. There are men who would hesitate to run the risk of darkening their homes who would not hesitate to run the risk of injuring their minds and bodies. What the Progressive Farmer is pleased to call "the new spirit in temperance" is important of course but it is most certainly not the only weapon that can be legitimately used in efforts to promote temperance

New York World.

His room is on the fourth story of the hospital, but it is nearly twice as large as the one into which the Mayor was first taken. It has two large windows looking out upon Willow street. It has not the usual bleak aspect of a hospital room. The windows have green shades, before which are draped spotlessly white curtains.

The brass bedstead is a huge, roomy affair with an ornamental counterpane. There is a green screen by which the night light can be kept from the patient's sight during slumber. A handsome red and green rug is on the floor, deadening the sound of the nurses' feet. Several comfortable chairs and a round table bearing slender, flower-filled vases, upon which the sick man may rest his eye, are also in the room.

The Hoboken authorities have taken every precaution in courtesy to the distinguished New Yorker to prevent any street noises disturbing him. Motormen of the trolley cars that pass the hospital have been instructed never to ring their gongs in passing; motorists are cautioned against sounding their horns and whistles and all heavy traffic which might rumble or rattle in its passage is forbidden from the street. The police keep the idly curious on the move.

But one sound reached the Mayor from below or without yesterday, and that was at twilight, when, in the chapel of the hospital, the organ softly played the music of the daily vesper service. And the low-voiced Sister of Mercy, who read the litany, and the 200 or more convalescent patients who knelt with her offered in their supplications last night, as they had at the morning service and the vesper service of the night before, a prayer for the complete restoration to health of the famous man lying in the room up stairs.

Mr. Subbubs—"I'm afraid our garden is going to be a failure." Mrs. Subbubs—"Why do you think so?" Mr. Subbubs—"Even the neighbors' chickens don't seem to take any interest in it."

BOY BUILDS A MONOPLANE

Smallest Successful Air Craft in The World Has Motorcycle Motor.

Kansas City Post.

A young Kansas City inventor, Kenneth Norton, 22 years old, 3033 Main street, has designed and built the smallest monoplane which ever made a successful flight. Norton's flight of about 200 feet, made yesterday afternoon, as told in late editions of the Post last night, broke the world's record for air-sailing with a low horse-power motor, formerly held by Santos-Dumont, the noted South American aeronaut, with a 12-horse-power motor. Norton's motor is only six horse-power. It was taken from a motorcycle.

The young inventor met with many failures before his efforts were finally crowned with success. Last week while trying out his machine, he fell to the ground from a distance of about 10 feet and broke the wooden propeller which drives his craft through the air. He escaped without injury, however.

Norton's monoplane is different from any other type, and is designed along lines worked out by the young inventor himself, taking what he thought to be the best points of the standard designs. It resembles most closely the machine in which Hubert Latham, the English aeronaut, made his flight of the English channel, though it combines also some of the features of the Santos-Dumont and of the Bleriot machines.

Norton built the machine in about 10 days, at a cost of nearly $700. He finished it two weeks ago. In an unfinished condition it occupied a float in the Fourth of July parade, the framework and motor being completed, but the wings were not yet put on. The machine had merely short "dummy" wings in the parade.

Completed, the wings are 30 feet from tim to tip, and 7 feet in breadth. The length from front to rear is 18 feet. The wooden propeller, at the front of the machine, is five feet in diameter. The framework is of hard pine and bamboo, the wings being covered with waterproofed muslin and the whole resting upon three pneumatic wheels about two feet in diameter.

Norton has not as yet had an opportunity to demonstrate his ability to turn and wheel in the air, as all his flights so far have been straight. This is due to the fact that he has been trying the machine out in a small area a pasture out on the Rockhill road.

J. M. Morehead, the New Republican State Chairman.

G. O. P. HAS JUST ABOUT SOUNDED THE DEPTHS

Asheville Gazette-News Much Distressed Over Selection of Mr. Morehead As Republican State Chairman.

Asheville Gazette-News.

In his report to the morning paper Mr. Gillis employed these words: "It is generally talked that the Morehead crowd merely used a local option promise to win, and then reneged."

Doubtless. But we respectfully submit, could one reasonably expect a different eventuality? The author and finisher of that plank has waged a campaign upon an issue wholly false, it has been prosecuted by a personnel largely false, and that it should run its logical course to a dishonest, foxy platform, declaration was a result that followed in the very nature of the case. That plank, like its author, will be all things to all men, and will be construed largely with a view to geographical considerations, and wholly with a view to the personal predilections of the voter.

One must realize, after a season of retrospection, that the defeat of Mr. Duncan was inevitable. There was arrayed against him the world, the flesh and Marion Butler. As Butler has said through the Charlotte Observer, the fight against Duncan began away back in the winter. But Butler told only half the truth. What he referred to was the letters that he caused Morehead to send out under government frank, in violation of the law. The first move against the national committeeman was made at the White House, where a campaign was waged against him which usually took the form of slander. In this enterprise Butler's Indian and half breed connections in the west were employed to no little effect, while the good work of creating confusion was pushed along by Democratic Senators. For a period covering several months the fight has been waged against him with the nicety and skill of a Richelieu or a Halifax, and with the cold ruthlessness of bold assassins, more especially character assassins. The false cry was raised that his was the pie brigade. The last statement given the Charlotte Observer by Butler before going to the convention hall, was to the effect that the days of the pie brigade were numbered. As he spoke there stood at his immediate right the esoteric Settle, with a fresh Federal commission in his pocket, while Gene Holton, whose feet are perennially planted in the trough, flanked his left, and neither appeared sensible of the excruciating irony of the performance. Many of the Federal office holders, perhaps a majority of them, Grant and Morehead's patronage, with their ramifications, were all instruments in the hands of Butler, and were set in motion by him against Duncan. The money, too, beginning with that of the rich Morehead, was on the other side. Butler's free lunch counter was superfluous, because everybody willing to vote for Morehead, and willing to take the money, could get car fare and meal tickets by letting his willingness become known. It was a scene that may well cause the judicious among Republicans to grieve—that scene about the ice water and lemonade stands of Butler, and the more efficacious refreshments served from Morehead's quarters, for even here they played both ends against the middle, and ministered to the arriving delegates according to their several wants. It was here that the representatives of the Republican party came to do homage to the recrudescent Butler and seemed to be proud of the man who had concluded to take charge of them. The psychology of this situation will be found of absorbing interest; the fact that the delegates subsequently cast their votes in obedience to the dictates of this man, one had as well leave to casuists. You had as well try to explain the Egyptian worship of cats and onions. Republicans delegated to express the sentiments of their party followers at home, turned from a man known to be honest in all his dealings with his fellowman, true to his friends and his party, and, becoming as clay in the hands of a political adventurer and mountebank, gave their support to a man who was attending his first Republican convention, whose two years career as a Republican has been devoted to promoting a spirit of factionalism, whose sole effort has been to build himself up by tearing others down, whose campaign for the position of office dispenser was prosecuted upon an issue which he acknowledged in a letter written in December to be utterly false, a letter written before he had concluded to turn Butler's falsifications and individual malevolence to personal profit.

Consideration of these things, with a glance at a platform obviously meant to deceive will, we think, lead thoughtful citizens, without reference to political affiliations, to conclude that the success of Mr. Duncan would have been much more in keeping with the public weal. The National Liquor Dealers association would have been willing to pay liberally for what happened at Greensboro yesterday, and it is conceivable that that provident commercial body was privy to what was about to transpire. It will therefore be seen that the Republican party must henceforth render obedience to two alien masters—to Marion Butler, of the Bond building at Washington, whither he went when he thought there was nothing more in it for him in the State; and, if the new rulers think it expedient, and good politics, to the Liquor Dealers association. Butler will in the future regulate the party's morals.

Our opinion is that the minority party in this State has just about sounded the depths.

FAMOUS FISH EATERS.

Athens And Rome Were Noted For Their Love of the Finny Tribe.

Boston Daily Globe.

Many persons, both in modern and ancient times, have been known as devoted fish eaters. Gatis, Queen of Syria, was so fond of fish that she ordered all caught within the limits of her kingdom to be brought to her, in order that she might be continually supplied with the choicest quality. Philovenes, of Cytheria, on learning from his physician that he must die of indigestion from having eaten excessively of a delicious fish, said: "Be it so, but before I go, allow me to finish what remains."

Athens was a city of fish eaters and its cooks were famous for their knowledge of cooking fish. The wise writers of the day spent much time in recording receipts for preserving fish in salt, oil or herbs. There was law in the city that forbade a fishmonger to sit down until he had disposed of all his stock, on the ground that a standing position made him more submissive and inclined to sell at a reasonable price. How would that do for the Beef Trust?

The Romans inherited from the Greeks their love for fish. Her soldiers were fed on fish, her generals ate fish, her Senators were epicures in fish and her Emperors recognized no dish more desirable than fish.

Lucullus caused a canal to be cut through a mountain near Naples to bring up the sea and its fishes to the centre of the gardens of his sumptuous villa. The love of fish in those days was a mania. The red mullet was prized beyond all food. A sauce called garum, made from the entrails and blood of mackerel and other fishes brought high prices, and great prizes were offered the man who could make a similar sauce out of the liver of the red mullet.

In more modern times kings and queens have ben known for their liking for fish. In the reign of Edward II, in England, sturgeon could be served only on the King's table. In France fishmongers were licensed by the King. Louis XIV was so fond of fish he appointed six fishmongers to supply his table. Francis I had two and Henry the Great had 24.

Under the reign of Louis XIV fish eating became as popular at the French court as it had ever been in Rome. A story is told that when fish failed to arrive from the seacoast in time for a grand dinner being given by the Prince of Conde to the King, the Prince's chef, an illustrious purveyor of fish, was so chagrined he ran to his chamber took his sword and pierced his heart.

Oil Cook-stove

Gives no outside heat, no smell, no smoke. It will cook the biggest dinner without heating the kitchen or the cook. It is immediately lighted and immediately extinguished. It can be changed from a slow to a quick fire by turning a handle. There's no drudgery connected with it, no coal to carry, no wood to chop. You don't have to wait fifteen or twenty minutes till its fire gets going. Apply a light and it's ready. By simply turning the wick up or down you get a slow or an intense heat on the bottom of the pot, pan, kettle or oven, and nowhere else. It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for coffee, teapot or saucepan, and even a rack for towels. It saves time, worry, health and temper. It does all a woman needs and more than she expects. Made with 1, 2, and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner sizes can be had with or without Cabinet.

A Thing of Beauty.

Delights of the Seaside Beautifully Pictured by the Atlantic Hotel In an Elegant Announcement.

As lovely an announcement as any ever issued by a hotel in the South is that just published by the Atlantic Hotel, of Morehead City, in a beautiful circular of twelve pages, attractive and inviting, a thing of real art. The season opens June first. All persons desiring a copy of the announcement may secure it by addressing a card to Frank P. Morton, manager, Atlantic Hotel, Morehead City, N. C. It is splendidly illustrated and the pleasures it recites and pictures make the wish to go to the seashore irresistible.

It is stated, the Summer season of 1910, will mark a new era in the history of the Atlantic Hotel—a number of improvements have been made, new granolithic and board walks laid, new piazza built, and tennis courts added. The ball room which is of enormous proportions, has been beautifully decorated, and many other features added for the comfort of its guests.

Morehead City is justly famed for the excellent fishing in the matchless waters that are found within the confines of this endless expanse of pleasure grounds, where myriads of the "Finny tribe," disport themselves.

The Atlantic Hotel is preparing to entertain this season the largest crowd in its history.

PLOT TO PILLORY PINCHOT?

Ballinger Men Appointed to Conservation Congress.

Denver Times.

The charge is made by friends of Gifford Pinchot, former Chief Forester, that a plot exists to pass resolutions condemning his policies at the Conservation Congress to be held at St. Paul, September 5 to 9, and that Governor Shafroth is a party to the alleged unfair tactics.

Governor Shafroth recently appointed 16 Colorado citizens, and when the list was made public a storm of protest arose from the Pinchot partisans. As the list stands there is one unqualifiedly for Pinchot; there are three who favor the purpose of his policies, but criticise some of the methods employed to enforce them; ten are ready to vote for the drastic resolutions condemning the entire institution of Pinchotism.

One of Pinchot's friends, a member of the Colorado Conservation Commission, who has attended every meeting of the commission and taken an active interest in its deliberations, expressed himself in vigorous terms over what he declared the unfairness of Governor Shafroth.

Some days ago the charge was made by friends of Secretary Ballinger that the local committee in St. Paul was showing favoritism to Pinchot in the asignment of speeches and the general makeup of the congress program.

"Evidently Ballinger's agents are active in the States where they believe his greatest support will come from," said the member not appointed by the Governor. "If Governor Shafroth had shown a spirit of fairness he would have divided the committee equally, instead of giving us only one."

From Sickness to "Excellent Health."

So says Mrs. Chas. Lyon, Peoria, Ill.: "I found in your Foley Kidney Pills a prompt and speedy cure for backache and kidney trouble which bothered me for many months. I am now enjoying excellent health which I owe to Foley Kidney Pills."—Holton Drug Co.

Curious Remedies.

In some parts of England one of the best cures for a swollen neck is to draw a snake nine times across the throat of the suffering one, after which the snake is killed and its skin sewed in a silken bag and tightly sewed around the neck. Another way, almost as good, is to put the live snake in a bottle, which is tightly corked and buried near the roots of a rosebush, and as the helpless snake decays the swelling in the neck of the patient will disappear.

Free Handed.

Club Waiter (fishing)—I dreamed last night, sir, that you gave me a sovereign. Stingy Member—Indeed, James! That's a little high for a tip, but—er—you may keep it.—London Telegraph.

They Have a Definite Purpose.

Foley's Kidney Pills give quick relief in cases of kidney and bladder ailments. Mrs. Rose Glaser, Terre Haute, Ind., tells the result in her case. "After suffering for many years from a serious case of kidney trouble and spending much money for so called cures, I found Foley Kidney Pills the only medicine that gave me a permanent cure. I am again able to be up and attend to my work. I shall never hesitate to recommend them." Holton Drug Co.

A NOBLE RED MAN.

He Was Not the Stately Chief Wolseley Expected to Meet.

Lord Wolseley was stationed in Canada many years ago. On one occasion he spent a holiday in the wilds, building a wigwam and practicing generally what we should now call the "back to nature" cure.

It was soon after his arrival in the country, and as the means of communication were still somewhat primitive he had never seen an Indian and was most anxious to make the red man's acquaintance. Some friends of his promised to send one or two to see him, as there was an encampment not very far away.

At last one morning Lord Wolseley was informed that a chief had called to see him. With his mind full of the conventional Indian, a man of commanding presence, arrayed in all the glory of paint and feathers, he eagerly stepped outside his wigwam to make his acquaintance. But he received a rude shock when he found a wizened gentleman dressed in a tattered frock coat and ancient waistcoat.

However, the general stifled his astonishment and played the genial host, although horribly bored at the incessant chatter of the Indian, who had been in the service of the Hudson Bay company and therefore could speak broken English fairly fluently.

At length, anxious to get rid of his visitor, he took a twenty-five cent piece out of his pocket and, fearing he might be grossly insulting his visitor, presented it to him.

The latter took it, looked at it carefully, felt the edges and then said:

"Can you mak' it half dollar?"

TWO-POUND BABY BORN.

Wears Doll's Clothes, But Seems Healthy and Happy.

East Templeton, Mass., Aug. 13.—The smallest baby in the United States is said to be the week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burpee, of this village. The diminutive bit of humanity weighs 1 pound 15 1-4 ounces, is perfectly formed and seemingly in good health. Baby Burpee wears doll's clothes, the garments prepared in advance for her being many sizes too large.

A Great Assistance.

"Good morning!" greeted the young man in the threadbare suit.

The millionaire turned around in his plush chair.

"Er—I think you have the advantage of me, young man," he said distantly.

"Why, don't you remember me, sir? I am broke. Two years ago you told me if I ever went broke to come around and see you."

The millionaire beamed a benevolent smile.

"So I did, my son; so I did. Here is the envelope all ready for you."

The young man took the bulky envelope, and his spirits rose like the mercury on a July day.

"Ah, a little assistance, I suppose?"

"No; a great assistance. It is a valuable little pamphlet I wrote during my spare time entitled 'How to Be Broke and Happy.'"—Chicago News.
